

FSU CJ Major Student Is Offered A Paid Internship

Congratulations to CJ Major Tatyana Veres, who has been offered a 12-week paid internship through the NC Department of Public Safety as part of Gov. Roy Cooper's Task Force for Racial Equity in Criminal Justice!

About This Internship:

The Department of Public Safety offers paid ($15 an hour), 12-week internship opportunities to qualified college students. The internships give students a glimpse of careers and operations within the department. Areas of focus include Alcohol Law Enforcement, Community Corrections, Emergency Management (Homeland Security), State Bureau of Investigation, State Capitol Police, and State Highway Patrol.

The internships are created through Gov. Roy Cooper's Task Force for Racial Equity in Criminal Justice and enacted through Executive Order 145. They are established for students enrolled at Historically Black Colleges and Universities and offer experiences in criminal justice, emergency management, law enforcement, and public safety.
