

I'm Dara Colon and I chose FSU because it was an affordable and quality education. I was here for my bachelor's in psychology with a minor in marketing and I moved on to receive my Master's in Business Administration.

Most of my professors, if not all of them, have contributed to my success here at FSU not only in the classroom but outside of the classroom particularly in helping me find internship opportunities as well as opportunities to engage within the local community.

If anyone I knew was interested in coming to FSU, the only thing that I would like for them to know is that FSU is like a family. Once you walk into those doors you're part of an esteemed legacy and a large community network of people who not only care about your success but want to see you flourish, not just while you're here but after you graduate as well. It's a lifetime commitment to be a Bronco.

I'm proud of FSU because Fayetteville State has served as the place where I grew up from a young girl into a young woman, not only educationally through the things I've learned but also as a professional through the student leadership development that I've received here at FSU and through the encouragement I received from my professors and faculty and staff that helped mold me into the woman that I am today.
