

My name is Cassandra Sutton. I am a senior and I'm a math major.

Because after my career in the military I didn't want to sit around at home and not do anything. So I figured I'd just come back to school after 38 years.

A lot of interesting things happened to me after my first semester here. Since I did so well in class I was recommended for a job as a math tutor. I've also been recommended for the Scholars Program because I did so well in math. I've also been able to go to research symposiums also to do research because I did so well in math.
